Anti-Social Behaviour

Incident Diary

"Everyone has the right to enjoy life in their own way as long as they don't upset people living near them"

Many neighbour disputes can be sorted out by talking calmly with the other person. But Multi Agencies (eg. Your landlord, Police, Environmental Health, Social Services, and Local Authority) will take action quickly if this approach fails or if someone's behaviour is very anti-social. We can only act against culprits if we have evidence. You can help by keeping a diary of everything that happens. Make sure you keep to these four simple rules:

How to keep the Diary

We can solve most disputes without taking serious action. But if the situation is bad enough, we will use the law to force the culprits to stop, or even to evict them. To take legal action we need a carefully written-down description of every incident. A court will only accept this incident diary if it's written in a certain way.

1. This diary is your own personal record of what you see or hear. You can't write down something that other people (including your wife, husband or partner) have witnessed. They must get their own diary - or you can give them one of the tear-off sheets at the back of this diary (called Witness Reports).
2. You must fill in the diary as soon as possible while the incident is still fresh in your mind. Do it on the same day if you can. If you leave it much longer a court might not accept it.
3. Fill in one form for each separate incident. If there is a second incident on the same day or night, start a new form. Put your signature and the date at the bottom of each form.
4. Write down everything you see and hear in as much detail as possible. A general summary isn't taken as seriously by the court as word-for-word evidence. So you'll have to include swear words. You'll see in the example sheet (which shows you how to fill in the diary) that we have written swear words down in full. This is much more effective than "he used abusive language". We're sorry if this is upsetting, but you'll have to do the same if the case is going to stand up in court.

Other evidence

It's a good idea to collect other evidence to back up the diary. Photographs can help in some cases - car repairs, overgrown gardens, graffiti and so on. Put the time and date the photo was taken on the back and sign it. You could make a tape-recording of very loud music or shouting. Speak to a housing or police officer if you need help.

He was shouting to the person inside to open tire door. Then at one point he shouted very loudly "open the door or you're fg dead". A woman inside kept screaming "go away you bd". He picked up a brick and threw it at the window. The window smashed and he tried to get in. Kevin, my son, called the police who arrived and took him John Jones away.....*

How has it affected you?

Write down the way the incident has made you feel. Include its effect on people who live with you. For instance has it stopped you sleeping, frightened your children and so on. Are you more affected because of age or ill health?

The incident is typical of Mr Jones' behaviour. There have been things like this every weekend for the last 7 or 8 weeks {see previous diaries}. My children who are 6 and 8 are woken up regularly. They are getting unsettled. I am on sleeping tablets because of the noise and upset
